TWO ARRESTED IN UNIT'S PROBE

Investigators for the Labor-Management Commission of Inquiry and state police have arrested two New Orleans area men in connection with a commission probe.

George O. Wyatt, 34, unknown local address, was booked on a charge of prejury. His bond was set at $15,000.

Morris Brownlee, 30, unknown local address, was booked on a vagrancy charge and his bond was set at $50.

Also arrested with the two area men was Kenneth Harris, 33, of Houston, Tex. He was booked on a vagrancy charge and his bond was set at $50.

All three men were released on bond.

The men were arrested at a motel. Officers had search warrants on two rooms.

The perjury charge against Wyatt was in connection with alleged testimony in a suit by Roderick Jenkins aganist Gov. John J. McKeithen.

The suit had attacked the constitutionality of the commission.
